Small-Scale Wood Processing Sector Study

March 2005

Internet resource research results

Ninety-two websites were evaluated as part of the Small-Scale Wood Processing Sector Study. The research and evaluation work was carried out by K. Ljungh, a local small sawmiller.

Contents:

Information on Internet Searching (3 pages)

Index of Websites evaluated (Alphabetical listing, 3 pages)

Index: Websites that provide information on Primary Processing (Alphabetical listing, 2 pages)

Index: Websites that provide information on Secondary Processing (Alphabetical listing, 2 pages)

Index: Websites that provide information on Business Services (Alphabetical listing, 1 page)

Index: Websites that provide information on Business Tools (Alphabetical listing, 1 page)

Index: Websites that offer Specific Services (Alphabetical listing, 2 pages)

Index: Websites that have On-line Databases (Alphabetical listing, 1 page)

Index: Websites that provide Links to other useful sites or services (Alphabetical listing, 2 pages)

Website summary pages: One or two page summary of each of the 92 websites evaluated (Alphabetical listing, 95 pages)

The following information is provided to aid those who feel weak with respect to operating a computer and searching the internet:

Internet Searching

The Internet holds a vast collection of materials and resources on a wide variety of topics. You can access these resources easily once you have learned a few ways for effectively locating information.

An easy way to search the Internet is:

1. Open your web-browser (Internet explorer or Netscape) and type in the address bar (type inside the long empty box along the top of the page it opens up to) one of the major search engines addresses listed below (these are based on content and can locate Internet resources by examining each page and organizing the words it finds).

Search engines I would use are below and enter them exactly as indicated below.

www.google.ca
www.msn.com
www.altavista.ca
www.yahoo.ca
www.excite.com
www.mamma.com
www.hotbot.com
www.webcrawler.com
www.lycos.com
www.dogpile.com
www.infoseek.com

How to search the Internet:

EXAMPLE #1

Alta Vista has always been a very popular search engine because it works quickly, updates regularly and scans documents for every word. This example below is for use with altavista and most other sites.

First, connect (see above) to the Alta Vista web site www.altavista.com Then use the empty box on that page that comes up to enter your instructions for your search as they are listed below:

1. Use the “+” and the “-” keys as a prefix for your search. Search words with the “+” to indicate that they MUST occur in a page to be considered a hit (to come up on your search), and use “-” to exclude pages.

For example: +cedar +lumber will find only pages that contain BOTH words. If you omit the “+” you will get some pages about cedar, some about lumber, and any pages containing both words. In this example, the difference is about 450,000 vs 10,000 matches. By adding an exclusion term as shown below, the number of hits drops to about 10,000. You can just check out the 1st 3 pages and usually find what you are looking for.

+cedar +lumber -sawmill

2. Use quotes for phrases

Too many matches? If you really want to find cedar lumber (and not just pages with those words included in them somewhere in the document) then put the request inside quotation marks.

+”cedar lumber” -sawmill yields only about 70 hits. This is a manageable number to look through.

3. Use the “title” keyword

If you're looking for pages on a specific topic, instead of pages that just contain certain words, try limiting your search like so: title:"milled_cedar" This often helps to weed out unwanted hits.

4. Use the “image” keyword

Looking for a special photo or icon? Try something like this: image:cedar_lumber.jpg

5. Use the “link” and “url” keyword

The “link” keyword finds pages that contain a link to another page, and the “url” keyword finds pages with specific characters in the address. Here are some examples: link:forms.gov.bc.ca - finds pages linked to the official forms site for the government url:lumber - finds pages with “lumber” in the address

And although this example utilizes the Alta Vista search engine, taking the time to explore how to effectively use other search engines is well worth your time. Just learn the techniques of any of the search engines to become efficient in the one you use most often.

EXAMPLE #2

To use with most of the search engines you can use the same procedure set out in EXAMPLE#1 or you can also use a simple comma between your search words like the example below:

If I was searching for a Cedar Sawmill in BC I would enter the following information in the search engines main box:

cedar, sawmill, B.C. - it brings up about 5000 sites with all the words cedar, sawmill or B.C. just mentioned in the title or web page. BUT generally, you can find what you are looking for in the first 3 pages. Just look at the web-page addresses in the bar under each description and it usually you can tell if it is related to the what you are searching for.

This way will work like Example #1 but you have to sometimes read more than you intended to, though, on the other hand, you can find other sites that may be of interest to you in the cedar or sawmill industry that may be of interest to you.

Now go ahead and try searching.....

WHEN YOU FIND A SITE YOU WANT TO KEEP TO VIEW AGAIN:

When you do find a site that you would like to go back to another time, then add it to your favorites (internet explorer) or bookmark (Netscape) by clicking on that particular tab above the address bar of your web browser.

If you want to search the on-line phone book and yellow pages for Canada then use the address bar to type in www.411.ca

Searching on www.411.ca

411.ca is the web page that hosts the up to date online phone book listings including the yellow pages.

You would search this site the same way you would look up the business you are looking for. That would be for example: if I was looking for a trucking company in BC to ship my lumber to Vancouver I would use www.411.ca as my webpage to start searching at and do the following:

1. Click on the - Find a Business button, it will open to another page
2. Click on the - Category (browse) button - it will open to another page
3. Follow the page down to the bottom and click on Alphabetical Top Categories it will open to another page
4. Click on the letter T for transport as you would look up in the yellow pages- it will open to another page
5. Scroll down the page and click on Trucking-Hauling -it will open to a new page that has a box titled Simple Search
6. Enter the City name in the box Terrace then select the province from the drop down menu inside the box, then click on FIND IT

It should come up with all the Trucking-Hauling companies that are in the Terrace BC area and if you like you can save the page as a favorite or bookmark it.
